Can I turn on logging for specific event rules?

THE INFORMATION IN THIS ARTICLE APPLIES TO:

- EFT v7 and later

QUESTION

Can I turn on logging for specific event rules?

ANSWER

Yes. As explained in the logging.cfg file, you can enable logging for a specific event rule:

To turn on logging for a specific event rule, you can append the event rule name (spaces replaced with '_') after the site name. The logger name will have this format:

log4cplus.logger.Events.[optional event sub logger].[site name].[event rule name]

For example, to enable trace level logging for the folder monitor rule

"My Folder Monitor" for the site "My Site" the logger entry would be:

log4cplus.logger.Events.FolderMonitor.My_Site.My_Folder_Monitor=TRACE

#

Notes: - Since logger names are case sensitive, the case of site and rule names used as loggers must match their use in EFT.

- If site or event rule names contain spaces they must be replaced with underscores when used in the logger entry.

- Not all event logging entries support site or event rule level logging.

#

Refer to the online help topic "EFT.log File" in your version of EFT help for details of editing the logging.cfg file.